

Rural Georgians: Tell us about your Internet access!

About the Survey

The Georgia Broadband Center at the University of Georgia's (UGA) Carl Vinson Institute of Government is assisting the Georgia General Assembly's Joint High-Speed Broadband Communications Access for All Georgians Study Committee by providing a web-based survey tool for Georgians to report their access to broadband.

Rural Georgians, including all sectors of Internet users, are encouraged to visit the website by December 1, 2016.

<http://broadband.georgia.gov>

- View what access is currently reported as available in your area
- Perform a recorded speed test if you currently have broadband access
- Complete a brief survey about broadband availability in your home or business

What is Broadband?

Broadband is high-speed Internet access that is always on and much faster than traditional dial-up access.

The Results

Staff from UGA's Carl Vinson Institute of Government will analyze the collected data and produce maps to be hosted on the Georgia Broadband Center website. These maps and other information will be available to the study committee as it considers policy options as well as to anyone who is interested in expanding community and economic development opportunities throughout the state.

Your help is critical as this study helps move the broadband conversation from ideas to action.
